MILESTONES OF STRATHMORE

THEME OF THE YEAR 2022

FREEDOM AND RESPONSIBILITY -

A Quest for Meaning

The human person is created with free will and can choose how to live, think, act, and behave. In recent times, there has been a great clamour and call for freedoms of all kinds. Increasingly, there is a mentality to think in an individualistic way, with the view that somehow our life is not intertwined with the lives of others. There is also the false perception that when we make our own decisions freely, we will be successful and happy, regardless of the consequences of our actions. The result of this so-called freedom is sometimes at loggerheads with our dignity as human beings, and who a human person truly is; a rational and intelligent being.

Our 2022 theme that embraces freedom and responsibility, core values of Strathmore University, gives us the opportunity to explore what freedom really means, and to reflect on how best we can live this value at a personal and communal level.

True freedom leads us to the best version of ourselves

For our students and other youth, time at university is one of exploration and experiencing 'freedom' away from the 'watchful eyes' of parents and guardians. It is a time when numerous personal decisions in friendship, impactful relationships, use of one's talents, studies, and socialization are made, all of which contribute to one's identity. It can also be a time when one follows others blindly, due to peer pressure and poor use of personal freedom. Upon completion of their studies, through the decisions they make, many students should have discovered who they are, and set a solid path for future careers, social, and spiritual aspects of their life.

was a strong advocate for freedom. He was however categorical that true freedom can only be achieved if one chooses that which is right and true and if this freedom is at the service of others. Freedom, therefore, is not a careless, free-willed way of living according to the flesh of following instincts, individual desires and whims, and conforming with others' actions without rationality. True freedom is the highest expression of love. It is fruitful and leads us to be the best version of ourselves.

When the gift of freedom is abused, a deep emptiness is left within us.

How often, after following the instinct alone, do we realize that we have badly used the treasure of our freedom, and the beauty of being able to choose true goodness for ourselves and for others? Ultimately, it comes down to the element of responsibility, which corresponds with true freedom. While we are free to search for truth and meaning, we are called to do so in a responsible way; listening to the opinions of others, and thinking of the consequences of our actions thereafter. In a sense, we are called to exercise our freedom, only for that which is truly good and whose goal is to serve others.

Reflecting on this year's theme presents an opportunity to explore diverse aspects of freedom through the activities organised at schools, departments, clubs, etc. We are urged to seize the opportunity to deepen our understanding of freedom and responsibility, and to inculcate this value in our daily decision-making.

St. Josemaría, the Founder of Strathmore University,

VALEDICTORIAN SPEECH 2022

I am extremely privileged to speak on behalf of the Strathmore Class of 2022 as we reflect on our journey as students of this great University. My hope is that these words will strike a chord as we see a mini biography play out in our heads.

For many of us, our journey started four years ago, in the auditorium behind us, as we went through orientation. The first year was dominated by meme kings and queens who reigned on WhatsApp, where one post from your meme plug led to you seeing 16 statuses with the same post. It was also a time when we discovered the pool tables, chess, music, sports, clubs and activities that would go on to define what we became known for.

The second year was a point of elevation for many. We were now the big boys who could sit on the big tables. When the gazebos were put up, we dominated those spaces, with one person holding down the fort for more than 30 minutes before the whole crew came. For others, comfort was found in the pool tables or game consoles at Siwaka playing Mortal Kombat or FIFA.

But in a blink, that first and second year went by so quick for we were now choosing languages, specializations, and a topic for our research project. On top of that, we had a global pandemic to be concerned about. Our entire generation had a collective experience where we all slowed down. Many hours of zoom classes were spent trying to focus at home in spite of the noisy neighbours, in spite of your parents asking you to help out with chores and in spite of the goat that your neighbour decided to buy. This all led to the one excuse or another: I'm sure we've all used "My mic isn't working" or "my connection is unstable; can I use the chat?"

Video calls became a point of connection and I'm sure when we were overcome with emotions, a quick zoom call with friends would cheer us up followed by a watch party of sorts. We truly have experienced it all, the highs and the lows. I would even liken us to the survivors of WW2 because we had a pandemic, economic struggle, and much more to fight through. We had to put on brave faces as we stepped into new phases of our lives and started to adult.

And in our final year, when we started submitting our final year projects or dissertations, we remember the times that we worked until the dead of the night on something that we thought was top notch... only to submit it to our supervisor, who looked us dead in the face and said "well done, but try again or add this and that". That character development was a little hard but we took it all with a pinch of salt and here we are today, victorious after having climbed the mountain until the summit.

It reminds me of an excerpt from a speech by Theodore Roosevelt, former President of the United States entitled The Man in the Arena. It says, "It is not the critic who counts, nor the man who points out how the strong man stumbles, or where the doer of deeds could have done them better. The credit belongs to the man who is actually in the arena, whose face is marred by dust and sweat and blood..."

Often, we look outside for heroes, but I see them right here among us. We each have the latent potential to make memorable contributions to others by charting our own paths. By being true, not only to our lofty aspirations, but also to the values inculcated at Strathmore and at home, we are able to rise, succeed and create opportunities not just for ourselves but for our community too.

And now, on behalf of the graduating class of 2022, to all the people who make Strathmore University great, I'd like to thank you. To the administrative staff, faculty, SU maintenance team; Thank You! Our appreciation especially goes to our parents, extended family and guardians who supported us in many ways than we will ever thank them for. Receive our heartfelt gratitude: We love you.

So many exciting moments and challenges beckon us, Class of 2022, but we are equipped for it all. Today, we leave the familiar caring walls of Strathmore and step out to chart our own path. Like warriors, we will not only survive but thrive in all that we do in the future. In all that we do, may we carry forward, with the strength, diligence and fortitude of character that Strathmore has instilled in us.

Thank you!

CHAIR, UNIVERSITY COUNCIL

GRADUATION SPEECH 2022

It gives me great pleasure to welcome you all here today, as we celebrate the graduating class of 2022. It is a joyous occasion, not only for you, parents and guardians, as your sons and daughters achieve this milestone, but also for the faculty, administrative and support staff of the University. I am honoured to welcome back our parents after not having you physically present with us for two years owing to the COVID-19 pandemic. We are all grateful for the efforts of the graduating class and are proud of you. Congratulations!

The University Council is tasked with policy direction and an oversight responsibility on governance matters here in Strathmore. On this auspicious occasion, allow me to make a few remarks highlighting some key achievements attained by the University during this academic year. As the Council, we congratulate the Vice-Chancellor, Dr Vincent Ogutu, the Management Board and the senior leadership teams for their efforts in progressing our University's brand on many fronts. We greatly appreciate the collaborative spirit in implementing the University's 2020-2025 Strategic Plan which is progressing well.

Research plays a critical role for institutions of higher learning and Strathmore is no exception in this regard. In the last academic year, Strathmore University's proposal to establish a UNESCO Chair for Climate Change Resilience was approved. The work pertaining to this Chair has commenced in earnest and it touches on urgent global themes of climate change adaptation, access to electricity in rural areas, energy efficiency, and sustainability among others. The initiatives of the UNESCO chair link well with the efforts on bio-diversity research undertaken by the budding Biodiversity Research Centre housed in our School of Tourism and Hospitality.

Strathmore University signed a cooperative agreement with the United States Agency for International Development (USAID) for a 5-year project to be implemented by Strathmore University Business School. The aim of this project is to support our micro, small and medium-sized business enterprises in six counties in Kenya. We take great pride in supporting the MSMEs, which as we know, drive our national economy and uplifts standards of living. We congratulate the teams involved in these projects.

The growth of an institution is seen by its milestones, and in this academic year, some key departments in the University celebrated significant milestones. Firstly, Strathmore Law School celebrated its 10th year anniversary a few months ago. For a Law School as young as ours, its impact over the last 10 years stands out. The Law School has established an outstanding undergraduate programme, a Master of Laws and most recently, has launched a Doctor of Laws programme. The graduates of the Law School are well known in this market, and some of your sons and daughters are graduating here today. I particularly commend the Law School students who are involved in the Strathmore Law Clinic, which offers pro bono legal aid to those who cannot afford legal services. This is true service to society. SLS, we are proud of you! Keep aiming high.

Strathmore's mission is strongly connected to serving society. In fact, one of our strategic pillars is Service to Society. The University started the Macheo programme, to support the schools in our community, which is celebrating its 10th anniversary this year. Macheo is a programme which supports Form 2-4 students from selected schools in neighbouring low income areas. Its results speak for it, and show its impact in transforming the lives of the students who attend the programme. In today's ceremony, a few Macheo scholars will graduate with various degrees. Their hard work will definitely be impactful in their families and communities. Well done team Macheo.

Our Financial Aid Office also marks its 10th anniversary this year. Over the years, Strathmore has been keen to ensure that students who need financial assistance are able to access Strathmore's quality education. Over the last 10 years, the Financial Aid Office has disbursed approximately Kes. 2 billion- from internal and external donors, in support of over 10,000 students from across Kenya and Africa. To those who have received some form of financial aid, we can only challenge you, that you too, in turn, will remember to support those who come after you.

In support of SU's Science, Technology, Engineering, and Mathematics agenda, the University Council has found it necessary to initiate an upcoming fundraising project to establish suitable facilities for STEM. We have commenced plans and ideas for the Kevin O' Byrne STEM Building. For those who were in Strathmore Accounting College from the 1960s to the 1980s, you may know of the late Engineer Kevin O'Byrne, who was instrumental in the design and construction of the current Strathmore School in Lavington. The Kevin O'Byrne Building will house our engineering school, the Institute of Mathematical Sciences and Innovation and IT research. We will soon be reaching out to you, parents and guardians, to support this noble initiative ensuring that our facilities remain top of the range.

The University is cognisant of the emerging issues on mental health, and I assure you, our parents and guardians, that the wellness agenda remains a top priority for the University. In the last academic year, the University increased, in a substantial way, resources, awareness, and support towards students and staff wellness. The University Medical Centre has been at the forefront in ensuring we have a healthy community; and I urge you dear parents to constantly engage with your sons and daughters, and be aware of these emerging issues. Let us all rally to support our families in matters of mental health. The students here have formed an extremely vibrant Mental Health Club. The University Council has even participated in the meetings held by this club.

Finally, to our newest graduands, on behalf of the Strathmore University family, I congratulate you as you step into the world, to take part in shaping an exciting future. We hope that during your time here you forged friendships strong enough to last you a lifetime; that you gained skill sets that you will build on continuously; and that you take with you unforgettable experiences and memories. Today is your day to celebrate and cherish. You have earned it! We wish you a wonderful and joyful day of celebration.

Thank you and God Bless you all.

VICE CHANCELLOR'S MESSAGE FOR CLASS OF 2022

Hearty congratulations to the Class of 2022! Your hard work, extraordinary resilience and determination have allowed us to gather here today. We are proud of all that you have accomplished and the milestones that you have achieved.

This year marks our 18th graduation ceremony, a significant occasion because today, we send out 1,201 graduates into the workforce. For each one of you, this ceremony marks the conclusion of an exciting phase and the start of a new adventure which will require you to put to use all of your years of education in a corporate setting.

Foremost, I would like to applaud you all for your spirit of resilience. You were the class that had to endure the brunt of the COVID-19 pandemic and all the challenges that came with it. While we worked towards adapting to the new normal as an institution, we were encouraged by your willingness to change gears, and keep going as well as the determination of your parents to see you through. I believe that the lessons learnt during that season have made us all more agile and given us a better appreciation for life.

This year, we resumed our international academic trips, a key value proposition for Strathmore's brand promise of ensuring a transformative student experience. Through these trips, you experienced new cultures and expanded your knowledge by learning in real-life contexts. All this was to ensure that we prepared you to have an awareness and acceptance of cultural diversity. You also experienced a bit of it through your interactions with your classmates from the 47 nationalities represented in Strathmore. What could be a better way to keep an inclusive culture for our students than to expose them to different cultures and races in their daily learning experience? At the heart of Strathmore's foundational ethos is our motto, Ut Omnes Unum Sint – That all may be one. Our Founder, St. Josemaría Escrivá had a clarion call of working together towards the same aim, in spite of personal differences in opinions, tastes and backgrounds. I urge you all not to depart from this message that has been your way of life for the past four years.

I'd like to take this chance to commend those who actively participated in the University's extracurricular activities, whether in sports, moot court competitions, club activities, or community service projects. You have helped fly the Strathmore flag even higher through your dedication and contribution to these activities; in turn I believe you have been socialized and had your character developed. Hold onto the values and skills that you have developed because they will be the lever that propels you higher as you join the workforce. Remember, learning never ends. Learn continuously: Try something new or rediscover an old interest, or take on a new responsibility or challenge. Stay curious because learning inspires confidence.

As you set your minds and hearts toward what lies ahead, this ceremony gives you the opportunity to carry forward the values and principles that have been the guiding force behind your education at this University. Remember that with great freedom comes great responsibility. Every human being has free will and the ability to choose how they live, think, and act. We trust you to make the right judgements of what is good and not necessarily what is easy. Be conscious of the fact that you are the future leaders and your actions not only affect you, but also the society around you. Our role has been to nurture you into potential leaders for Africa and the world. Carry this responsibility with a sense of pride knowing that you have what it takes to positively influence and transform society.

To the parents and guardians, we acknowledge your efforts that have contributed to the success of the graduating class. In particular, I'd like to recognize Mrs. Rose Sang, who has become one of us in incredible ways. She has been a constant companion to her daughter, Stacey Sang, by accompanying her to all her classes throughout the four years and providing the much appreciated physical support. For us, she is a source of encouragement and has shown us with deeds what it means for a parent to fully accompany their child. Thanks to her enduring support, Stacey, who has overcome great odds in life, graduates today with a first class degree in Financial Economics.

Class of 2022, as you move on to the next level, you must not let anything deter you from taking those first steps. Don't spend so much time trying to choose the perfect opportunity, that you end up missing the right opportunity. Recognize that there will be failures, and acknowledge that there will be obstacles. Be ready to learn from your mistakes and those of others.

Amidst all the pressures that come with life, remember to take care of your mental wellness. Nurturing and maintaining a positive mental health will be crucial to stabilizing constructive behaviours, emotions, and thoughts. The importance of good mental health ripples into everything we do, think, or say. If you feel overwhelmed by anything, reach out and talk to someone. It really does help.

Finally, as you walk out of your campus years that have been full of self-exploration and discovery, it's critical to consider how you will collaborate with others in a bid to contribute to society. As a student and soon-to-be graduate, you are part of a family of individuals, like me, who have shared formative, rite of passage experiences and self-discovery moments on the same campus. Connecting with our alumni network gives you a pulse on careers, industry, and opportunities. Alumni networking teaches you, inspires you, and advances you and your future. It's a benefit of being affiliated with Strathmore University, and being a Stratizen. I urge you to join the SU Alumni network today and take advantage of the pool of opportunities therein! Once again, congratulations Class of 2022.

Dr. Vincent Ogutu

Vice Chancellor

PRO-CHANCELLOR'S GRADUATION SPEECH 2022

Graduation is the result of extended hard work over time. While there are certainly varying degrees of academic success, every single one of you has achieved something great. After the dedication and persistence of your time at the University, today marks the beginning of a new stage in your lifetime of trial. I imagine that in these past few days, you have been looking back over the many memories of your years at Strathmore, remembering the good times and the bad, talking about the enjoyable times, and so on. May your experiences not focus only on how difficult life can be, as there is the other side of the coin in your inspiring stories of endurance. We encourage you to persist in the face of challenges to come.

Graduation is quite often considered to be the end of an era and the beginning of the rest of one's life. There have been many lessons learned over time that have contributed to who we are today. Many of you can relate to the experience of being knocked down and getting back up, and in the process, learning to take responsibility for your own actions. We can all talk about mistakes that we learned from or challenges that grew us, helping us to focus on the present, and be ready to face the challenges in the future. Taking responsibility for our own actions has led us to appreciate the importance of many other values, like accountability, integrity, and the like.

You are graduating in a year in which at campus

we have been working with the theme of Freedom and Responsibility. Before this, we all understood that our freedom—as individuals and collectively—goes hand in hand with some responsibilities that are inherent to it. In exercising our responsibilities, we have grown in understanding of what freedom is. We have now come to see how our freedom demands these responsibilities, in a special way regarding what we do for others.

Our mission at Strathmore University calls upon us to instill in the students a sense of responsibility for their community and their world. I am happy to note that by the end of the graduation ceremony today, all here will have seen how the Graduating Class of 2022 exemplifies this, from the marvellous work of the student council to the different initiatives that students, either individually or as a group, have taken in helping others; there really has been so much! Therefore, we do not doubt that you have all come to understand that it is the responsibility of each one of us to carry forward to the world a commitment to make the world a truly better place. It is true that any of us can easily overstep or be mistaken about what the right course is. However, we now see the need to promote ideals that can positively impact the world around us.

Graduating class of 2022: it is our prayer that all of you in the time ahead will continue to help Strathmore University persevere in its efforts to attain ever more fully the ends that have always characterized it. To do so, we count on the help of God, who will never fail us if, on our part, we seek to respond with generosity.

Phew! The four-year adventure finally comes to an end. I leave carrying a lot more around with me than just a shiny degree. I'm grateful for the exposure and opportunities for growth that SU has so generously given me. What can I say? The next adventure awaits!

THE NATIONAL ANTHEM

Ee Mungu nguvu yetu
Ilete Baraka kwetu
Haki iwe ngao na mlinzi
Na tukae na undugu
Amani na uhuru
Raha tupate na ustawi

Amkeni ndugu zetu
Tufanye sote bidii
Nasi tujitoe kwa nguvu
Nchi yetu ya Kenya
Tunayoipenda
Tuwe tayari kuilinda

Natujenge taifa letu
Ee ndio wajibu wetu
Kenya istahili heshima
Tuungane mikono
Pamoja kazini
Kila siku tuwe na shukrani

What can I say? It's been quite the adventure. I have fought the good fight, I have finished the race, I have kept the faith. Glory to God.
