2016 GRADUATION

Strathmore UNIVERSITY

Strathmore University Coat of Arms

The Lion is the symbol of strength and courage, and of the determined fight for excellence and justice. It also represents Kenya, our country, which strives to attain all the qualities mentioned above.

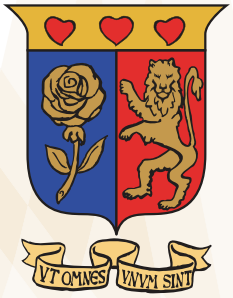

The Three Hearts represent the three races which, in 1961 when the University started, were segregated in the colonial system of education. The heart represents the person, since it is taken as the source of all our actions, and the source of love. The fact that the three hearts all have the same colour shows the equality of all people and their aim to love and understand each other. At the beginning it clearly pointed at the target of racial unity. Today it symbolises the common aim of parents, teachers and students in the educational process of Strathmore.

The Motto "Ut omnes unum sint" is Latin. It is a quotation from a passage of the Gospel, and means "That all may be one". It expresses our desire to work together towards the same aim, in spite of personal differences or opinion, tastes and backgrounds. The colours in heraldry (the science dealing with coats of arms) have associated meanings as follows:

Yellow: (Gold) Gold means eternity, perfection.
Blue: (Azure) Sky blue means high ideals, high aims.
Red: (Gules) Blood red means sacrifice, love, fortitude.

The Rose in full bloom represents love, the source of all good desires and actions, even if at times this means loving sacrifice, as represented by the thorns. The rose has a supernatural meaning too. Love, with capital letters, is love of God. The rose also has a historical meaning associated with the life of Saint Josemaría Escrivá, founder of Opus Dei, who inspired and encouraged the people who started Strathmore: he once received a divine sign in the form of a carved gilded rose in a very trying moment of his life.

Strathmore
UNIVERSITY

Strathmore University has a rich history and heritage being the first multi-racial and multi-religious institution in pre-colonial Kenya in 1961 offering A 'Level subjects in Sciences & Arts.

Back then, races were not allowed to mix under colonial rules of government at that time; Kenya was a colony under the British rule. Kenya gained its independence in 1963, and those who previously held government positions left, creating a huge gap lacking Kenyans to take up positions in government and private sector. Strathmore 'A' Level College was situated in Lavington area at Mzima Springs Road (then called Strathcona Road, hence the choice of the name 'Strathmore') then.

Strathmore was founded under the inspiration of St. Josemaria Escriva, founder of Opus Dei, a personal prelature within the hierarchy of the Catholic Church. The aim of Opus Dei, is to live fully a Christian vocation and to have its members (majority of who are lay) operate in every country in the world emphasizing the fact that all human activities be well done for the glory of God.With this in mind individuals strive to offer their work to God. The founders of Strathmore – some members of Opus Dei with others - created a trust; Strathmore Educational Registered Trust which manages the institution with assistance of relevant management bodies.

A few years after Kenya gained its independence, the board of trustees felt the need to grow the number of accountants from the few African accountants available in the newly independent state. With the A' Level program that Strathmore had been running well, coupled with sound advice from professionals in the accounting field, Strathmore took the opportunity to start an accounting class with a group of 25 students in 1966. The number of students interested in taking the course increased as the program became popular across the country.

Over the years, Strathmore A 'Level college evolved to meet existing needs over the last 50 years in alignment with country needs. It started a secondary school in the 1970s and a primary school in the 1980s. It was not until 1992 that Strathmore College of Accountancy merged with Kianda College (then a women's' secretarial college) that the current campus facility came to be. Strathmore University has one campus at Madaraka area, 5 kilometers from Central Business District; it wasbuilt on land donated to the College by the Government of Kenya in 1989. The buildings and equipment of the initial structure were funded by the European Union and the Italian Government.

The foundations of Strathmore University

Strathmore University embraces a teaching philosophy that is focused on providing a holistic education that caters for all facets of the human person.

Teaching
Strathmore University remains committed to its vision to provide all-round quality education in an atmosphere of freedom and responsibility; excellence in teaching, research and scholarship, ethical and social development and service to the society. In line with its mission, Strathmore University embraces a teaching philosophy that is focused on providing a holistic education that caters for all facets of the human person.

The range of undergraduate and postgraduate programs offered at Strathmore University continue to grow and cut across several disciplines including management science, information technology and computer science, hospitality, mathematical sciences, health sciences, law, humanities and the arts. All the University's programs, are complemented with a strong offering of ethics, philosophy and other general humanities to further augment the understanding of the human person, work, family, society, institutions, ethics and governance. The University continues to avail professional qualification in areas sought after by industry such as accounting, finance and marketing as a means of ensuring our graduates are 'career ready' for the global workforce.

At Strathmore, students work closely with researchers in research-rich environments, undertake placement-based industrial attachment engagement and learn through the delivery of service to the community. The success of this approach is reflected by the fact that, above 50 % of our graduates obtain employment within three months after graduation.

Research
Strathmore's reputation of excellence in research continues to grow, as demonstrated by its engagement in research projects spanning across: health and health care management, mobile application and cyber security, renewable energy and energy efficiency, public policy, governance and integrity, entrepreneurship, sustainable tourism, mathematical modeling and applied statistics, extractive industries and intellectual property.

The vibrant research activities in the research centres across our campus have attracted local and global partners from academia as well as the public and private sectors. This triple helix research cooperation model ensures that students joining Strathmore are exposed to research opportunities and are focused on helping to deliver practical and enduring solutions to real-world problems in the course of their degrees.

Service to society
Strathmore University makes a profound contribution, at all levels, to the community's social, intellectual, economic and cultural development. We serve society through research, education and institutional citizenship. Through research, we advance knowledge that is the foundation of improvements in human well-being. By educating students, we strengthen society's capacity to grow and innovate. Through institutional citizenship, we develop programmes that make a direct contribution to the betterment of society and inspire our students to do the same.

As part of the undergraduate curriculum Strathmore students dedicate a minimum of 200 hours to serving the community on a voluntary basis through the community based attachment programme. Further, the vibrant community outreach programmes office of the University continues to be a hub of activities run by students and staff with a focus on addressing the challenges faced by the less privileged members of our society.

Vice Chancellor's Message for 2016 Class

It is with true joy that I congratulate you most warmly on behalf of all members of Strathmore University, on your tremendous achievement.

We join you in applauding the contributions of your parents, guardians, families, sponsors and benefactors, all of whom have contributed immensely to your receiving a Strathmore education and to your graduating today.

We also recognize in a special way your lecturers and other staff, and especially our house keeping staff. All of these people have worked intensely and tirelessly to create a special intellectual, physical and family environment at Strathmore to support you and to enable you to succeed.

The educational experience Strathmore offered you during the years you have been in the University was intended to impart a spirit of service, innovation and entrepreneurial appetite and high moral standards, as well as values that promote personal integrity and respect for diversity and human dignity. I trust that the leadership qualities that you demonstrate in the future in your professional work, study and entrepreneurship, will reflect the values that you have nurtured during your years at Strathmore.

You have worked hard and made sacrifices to earn the awards you receive today and you now embark on another phase of your lives as graduates of Strathmore. But success alone is not enough. You got your degree; that's success. So far, this has been about yourself ... but we need you to change other people's lives. We need you to put other people's needs before your own. We need you to go back to your communities and change lives. We need each one of you to go out of here and be a life-changer. That is what great people do.

Take up your professional work with a clear awareness of the needs of our country and a desire to serve. You must refuse to look upon professional work as a mere means for acquiring wealth. You must defend your own dignity and that of everyone else. Stand up to injustice and social inequalities. Stand up to corruption. Stand up to negative ethnicity. You have a moral obligation, a mission and a mandate to do what you can to help make our own country, to help make Africa a better place. You can do it. You must do it.

You are the bearers of the enduring legacy of service and excellence Strathmore has set and demonstrated through its numerous influential alumni who are serving our country with distinction and exemplary integrity in diverse areas of business and public life. So we're counting on you to live lives worthy of emulating, lives that will inspire our next generation to keep walking that path to uprightness.

You will always remain part of the Strathmore family, and as the years pass, this University will always give you reason to be proud. I invite you to continue contributing to all Strathmore's successes nationally and internationally by becoming active members of Strathmore Alumni Ltd, the umbrella alumni association of SU graduates, which is in the process of being registered as a not -for -profit company.

And now on behalf of the Strathmore University family, and with all the applause that is your due, I release you into the world to serve and create wealth for our country and jobs for our people.

Prof. John Odhiambo
